Gran Torino Gran Torino "If I met Ernie on the street, I'd give him a tap on the shoulder and say, 'What the hell you doin' here?'" - Clint Eastwood as Ernie the Barber, the "frequently suicidal" friend of Vinnie's (Paul Newman) Overview Gran Torino (the name of Eastwood's character in the film) is a widower who has gotten by for 65 years on a dead and decaying farm just outside Chicago, Illinois. He has no friends, he is unable to read or write and he hasn't had a conversation with anyone his whole life. He has never had a girlfriend or gone on a date. If he has his way, though, he wouldn't even have a car, not unless the weather is too bad to walk. When his mild-mannered neighbor Wayne (Nick Nolte) proposes that they start going out to look for a fella, the end of Eastwood's lonely life finally seems to be at hand.
