? However, I'm not sure if this is a low-hanging fruit?. . I can't seem to find any other tutorials that could help. . Also: Thanks in advance. A: I'm in London, so I'm using the code below to download the image, and it seems to work just fine for me. #Set correct your docker ip address, usually I use docker-for-mac $DOCKER_IP="10.102.17.28" #Check that docker service is enabled systemctl status docker #Ask you for the docker login docker login -u $DOCKER_USER -p $DOCKER_PASSWORD $DOCKER_IP #Initiate an image download from Docker Hub docker pull #If you're using kubectl to interact with your container, then you need to pass your token here: kubectl proxy --port=80 --token $TOKEN #Wait a few seconds, until the download is done sleep 5 #Logout from docker docker logout #Go to in your browser, and you should see an image of the linux distribution you want to use (and possibly additional) If you're having issues with the URL, then make sure that you're not using `` instead. Hope this helps! A: I've spent some time trying to figure this out and I think I've got it working on my mac. I'm running macOS Sierra. I downloaded version 1.16.0 of Docker Desktop for Mac from the docker website and ran the following to do it. I didn't set up a password in the docker console (logged in with docker -H for my IP address, using the IP address that the screenshot seems to show). $ docker login trying Getting login response: { "login": "", "email": "userid", "id f30f4ceada
