"The ambassador and other members of the embassy were not harmed during the incident. The perpetrators fled the scene in the vehicle of the consular section," the statement said. In a statement issued later, the embassy said that Pakistani police have started an investigation into the attack. The injured were taken to a private hospital. The embassy said consular vehicles are equipped with CCTV, and that footage would be available for immediate action. However, it said it could not provide a timeframe for the footage to be made public. Late on Monday evening, protesters gathered outside the embassy, demanding the release of Pakistani minister Hina Rabbani Khar, who has been on a hunger strike since March to protest the way the case of Indian national Kulbhushan Jadhav, who was sentenced to death by a military court in 2017, has been handled by Islamabad. The protesters held placards, demanding the release of Jadhav and an end to the "unprovoked attack" on the embassy. The protesters demanded that Khar, who is head of the Ministry of External Affairs, be arrested and allowed to face trial in Pakistan. They also called on the international community to intervene in the matter. The protesters were dispersed by police at about 11:30 p.m. (1500 GMT). The incident is the latest in a series of attacks on diplomatic offices in the restive region of Kashmir. The other attacks included the targeting of a car carrying a senior Indian diplomat in Islamabad on January 27 and the attack on the Indian Consulate in Lahore on January 18 that left one person dead and injured several others. In August last year, a car bombing killed a policeman in Balakot, near the India-occupied Kashmir town of Muzaffarabad. The Narendra Modi government took exception to Islamabad's alleged involvement in the attack, and announced the decision to revoke the special status of Jammu and Kashmir, and divided the region into two union territories -- Jammu and Kashmir, and Ladakh. 1d6a3396d6
