The film was adapted from the novel by the novelist Sai Paranjpye, who also wrote the screenplay..PURPOSE: The role of the medial antebrachial cutaneous nerve (MACN) as a sensory branch of the radial nerve during coronary artery bypass surgery (CABG) remains controversial. We hypothesized that cutaneous sensation is preserved in patients with acute MACN injury after CABG as compared to the cutaneous sensation in an uneventful control group. METHODS: We hypothesized that a greater frequency of cold perception was associated with an increased risk of MACN injury during CABG. The study was a retrospective case-control analysis of all patients undergoing CABG between January 2012 and December 2016 at our institution. A control group of patients in whom MACNs were not injured during the same time period and who were randomized to undergo CABG were evaluated
