The point being advocated is that "more converts" come from the Bible. There are a number of problems with this conclusion. Since we are not able to determine who are the "more converts", we cannot know if the number of baptisms is "more" than it was in the past. Further, a non-Christian who does not attend church is not counted as a conversion as he or she is not a Christian. It seems that the only evidence to compare the number of baptisms in the past and the present is the number of non-Christians in the past. The second problem with this evidence is that the number of non-Christians steadily grew from the past. The church had been shrinking in the past. When the growing percentage of non-Christians was applied to the number of baptisms, the results indicate that the present number of baptisms is much less than the past. 7. Üœçç@êâ's (N'uludat, Djalal ad-Din Umar, Â«qegtgÂ») Hello, I'm Teresa Andrassy and I`m a Hungarian girl. We're of the opinion that a lot of the knowledge on the Internet is just plain wrong! Therefore, this is not an article telling you how to use PowerPoint. It`s not an article on using the new Ribbon interface. It`s not even a "How to change your display pictures and background". This is an article "How not to use PowerPoint"! As always, we`re looking for your feedback, so please share with us what you think of this article. It really helps us to make the Internet a better place. Thank you for your time, it is appreciated.
