“Designing REZ’s universe has been a unique journey. We started by investigating various spiritual cultures, looking for the source of the core principles and symbols hidden within. We eventually discovered that the original REZ (realm of eternal zen) is a lost ninja village in Japan. Then, although incredibly different, it totally made sense. Being from Finland we love both our culture and anime, and the historical aspect was extremely appealing, as it’s so wonderfully different from the western way of doing things.” — From the game’s website. REZPLZ is a classic game of classic games. In a world where the current life seems to no longer be relevant, a young zen monk named Rez hopes to find a meaning in life through his life and his gift. But the way he sees the world is through a strange and foggy psyche, and when you throw in his friends who will help him on his journey, you get a platformer that’s out to change the way you view the world. Rez comes in two flavors. The first is the nomadic life of a Zen monk, who travels the world in search of new experiences and to help fellow zen monks. This is Rez’s sanity mode. He’s not invincible, but he can stop time, use telekinesis, and will use his alien powers to fight off the demons that are tearing the world apart. He can also use the powers to solve problems, and in some cases save you when you’re about to die. The second mode is called Rezlogic. This is the “Life Mode”, which is where you play as the main character Rez. Rez has a special relic, with the power to let him transform himself into seven different aliens. And unlike the Zen monks, he can barely hold on to his sanity in this mode. So what are we trying to do? How do we want you to play REZPLZ? Well, honestly, we want you to express yourself and your individuality. We want to create a game that’s unique to you and your friends, a game where you can look up at a puzzle board and have a great time just by choosing the colors you like to play with. We want to create something that makes you smile, something that is in tune with the way you play games. So, in other words, we’re hoping to c9d1549cdd
