The HyperMotion Technology suite has also been enhanced, with additional features that will improve AI behaviour and player movements and reduce the impact that GPS jitter has on on-pitch performance. FIFA 22 will also see the introduction of "Free Kick And Penalty Kicks," which will allow players to learn and understand the nuances of taking a penalty or a free kick from anywhere on the field. "FIFA Ultimate Team (FUT)" has been completely rebuilt for FIFA 22. In FUT 23, players will work towards completing a team in multiple ways, including assembling a team of pre-defined players, manually building a team, buying and unlocking cards, and unlocking players. The FUT team is more focused and deep, providing a fun and deep way to compete within FIFA Ultimate Team. Furthermore, FUT teams can now be sorted, and a "player of the month" reward will be added to FUT. Finally, FIFA 22 introduces "Elasticity." This feature adds the animation potential of collision based movement, in game actions which allow players to keep the ball and run at high speed or to change direction. It applies the player's changing speed and direction to their on-pitch actions, enabling a greater number of on-pitch moves that change the speed, direction or quantity of the ball. FIFA 22 will be released on September 27. FIFA 20 was released in early September 2016 and launched to record-breaking sales. As FIFA 20 was initially only available as a "Gold Edition" on Xbox One and was later made available at retail, the retail version of FIFA 20 had a great start. A combination of the Football Manager series and the console version of the game led to FIFA 19 securing record sales in its first week, as well as becoming the best-selling FIFA game in a calendar month. Digital sales of FIFA 20 were very strong in its first two weeks of release, outpacing that of FIFA 19. The digital sales of FIFA 20 peaked in North America on September 2, 2016, when the game released on PlayStation 4 and Xbox One. Since then, FIFA 20's digital sales have not been able to match those of FIFA 19 and the title has sold through over 78 million units worldwide. Here are the Best FIFA 20 games of all time.
