PEPs - The most-captained player, the most-purchased player, and the most-wanted player have joined Ultimate Team, and will make any manager's dream a reality in FIFA 22. New Featured Matchday Moments, Seasons, and Clans are included in this update. SUBSTITUTIONS - In MLS and PES, you can make up to 6 changes per game for a whole season in your squad. In FIFA 22, you can make up to 6 changes in a game for a whole season. New animation and finishing models (in both offensive and defensive plays) give players more visual diversity and realism. You can now walk through the strikers and pass the ball to a teammate with a dash. There is a new interception animation that would let you know when the play is going to be stolen. You can control when to push forward the ball and when to hold onto it, and those actions now include making dribbles (crosses or reverse-dribbles). When you change direction and quickly push the ball forward, it will bounce around the pitch, which makes the game more tactical and flowing. There is more variety in player positioning when you press the ball, for example, you can leave your defenders on the sidelines and go to the wings, or move the ball into space from the defenders. There is more variety in the attacking movements, for example, you can change the direction of the ball going towards the goal from the right wing to the left wing in one touch, and from left wing to right wing in another one touch. You can pass the ball more with long vertical passes, diagonal passes, and backwards passes, which will be more realistic. FIFA 22 Ultimate Team You will start with a set of players on hand of all the teams in the game. You can pick from 3 kits, by changing your club's colors to suit your personal style. Every player in the game will be available to be purchased, even if the player's team is not playing, and you can also purchase players from your rivals (The Latin American teams, for example, can purchase the Argentine teams in your rivals, if you own a world cup jersey). FIFA Ultimate Team features innovation in every department - animations, physics, ball control, and more. What does the new EA SPORTS™ FIFA development team look like? With FIFA 22, we have put as much effort into creating, refining, and implementing complex gameplay features as we have into designing, delivering and communicating the exciting new direction for FIFA we are taking. As we continue to build on the game that more than 1 billion players have already downloaded, we will continue to evolve our creative teams in specific areas of our games. One of the biggest challenges we have faced in recent months is deciding how best to help teams like England and Germany reach the next level, and the challenges they face without access to the new Transfer Market - which will be the focus of our next development push with FIFA Ultimate Team. We are proud to announce that we are bringing this to life in our FIFA Ultimate Team from EA SPORTS™ FIFA 19. That means existing real-world players will have a new way to grow their careers from September 2019, and new players will have their first experience with the Transfer Market this fall.
