Haunting Hour is the virtual reality escape room experience you've been waiting for, available now on Oculus, WMR and Vive! Experience a full on 3.3x3m escape room experience - complete puzzles, down ingredients, and hatch objects to free yourself from the curse! Built for multiplayer and cooperative gameplay, Haunting Hour supports up to 4 people in full on 3.3x3m escape room space! Cross Platform Play: Players can experience Haunting Hour on the Oculus, WMR or Vive with a simple, server-based swap to any of those platforms. No downloads or DLCs, just play cross platform! Intuitive Room Layout: Pose a devious puzzle in front of you by using objects in the room. Solution might be as simple as finding a shoe or as complicated as a Moebius diagram. Solve all the puzzles for maximum points. Build up your time by drinking potions and chucking things. Dress the character you want to play as! Cross Platform Server: Build up to 10 rooms in your home, throw events over voice chat, and share your rooms with others that can't make it to your location. Get your friends together, but when is just not the right time? Cooperative: Multiplayer is the only way to escape the castle, but you'll have to work together to solve puzzles. Help your teammates by providing hints or gear, or by actively destroying things and sending your teammates health to 0%! The match making system uses your friends list and Steam groups to provide you with a list of people that will most likely have fun playing with you, or not. Made specifically for VR, this is an

4 Player Cooperative Campaign Gameplay Imagine a wonderful Star Trek world where enemies were their equals. Space Rangers is back for a second mission in a solo or 2 Player cooperative campaign that takes place along the Rim of Federation space. Take on the role of Captain Spock, an Elite Space Ranger or Captain Kirk, an Elite Space Ranger. While on a mission to destroy a rogue Romulan ship, the remaining members of the ship are taken hostage. Realizing that the other Rangers are in danger, Kirk teams up with Spock to rescue the Captives and face the Romulan's wrath. Space Rangers brings back the feeling of flying alone in the vastness of space with the first person real time combat system. You will need to balance your ship's weapon system with ship specific attributes like your Weapons Power, Engines and Shields to maintain your ship's health and shield the Captives. There is no health bar, and shields will run out forcing you to retreat. Enemy ships will be armed with several weapons that can damage your ship. Defend yourself by using your various weapons: Warp Thrusters, Weapons, Shields, Beam and Remote Sensors. Scenes - The Rim of Federation - Bajoran Space - Romulan Space - Tactical - Ship Selection - Pre-Game - Post-Game - Multiplayer Campaign - Starbase Assault Multiplayer - Share and Download Screenshots You Are (or at least are thought to be) The Leader of the Federation's Deep Space 9 space station. Suddenly the Cardassians are back and on the attack! You need to repel boarders and wipe out the Cardassians in the process. But time is running out as the station crew need your help to pull itself together, or at least try to pull itself together. Start with the anti-submarine craft and work your way up and forward in the station to defeat the Cardassians. You are the captain of a space station in the Rim of Federation area of space. The Cardassians are back and out for revenge. While defending your space station, you must run and hide from the Cardassian starfighters. Starfighters are armed with lasers and torpedoes and are capable of doing real damage to your space station. Of course, in addition to fighting the Cardassians, you must also defend your station's computer core from attack by the Cardassians. The Zenith Guard is back! An alliance of the most respected UFP captains unite to

What's new:

Expansion REVIEW by Peter Parrish on Wednesday, January 18, 2017 This is my second review of this expansion and I'm sure this will follow the same format and, hopefully, follow my previous review really well. As ever, I initially loved the Tower expansion, but these days my time at EADS DCS World is limited so I haven't played the game this much these past few months! I thought I'd get some idea of how much of an improvement and expansion it has become since I last played it - at least until work got busy and the in-game pause button invaded every section of my brain! If nothing else, I thought I'd do a follow-up review of the changes, improvements and additions to this game, compared to my original impressions of it. Let's see if I can jump into it now and see if my water wings still work, or if the flood-warning notices are still coming up! This review covers the version of DCS World I have, which is the sim version, and it includes the Wings Over the World addon as well as the DLC Tower!2011 (and earlier versions include Tower!). Like for Batman Begins, this is not a very massive expansion pack and probably won't take very long at all, especially for any long-time DCS World fans such as myself. I do plan on purchasing the more comprehensive Aviation Modernisation series, though that isn't out yet, and when that time comes I will likely revisit and get a fully non-addon take on this expansion too. Essentially, the changes (and additions) are merely cosmetic, and require the most trivial amount of work. This post won't be an extensive and detailed one that covers all the hours of changes and additions (which would take a series of posts to cover), rather this post will be a nice easy take on the changes and additions to the base DCS World engine, as well as including the word 'new' or 'Tower!2011' every line or so to alert you to what is new or what is different. Since the new Tower!2011 DLC is essentially an expansion pack, I'll just be covering the features I use and are different to the previous expansion packs I've covered. I'll of course bring
