Evaluation of continuous drainage and continuous irrigation for the prevention of deep dermal burns. A prospective, randomized, double-blind study was carried out to evaluate the efficacy of continuous drainage vs. continuous irrigation for the prevention of deep dermal burns. Fourteen patients were randomized into two treatment groups. The patients were prepared to undergo elective appendicectomy. After induction of general anaesthesia, the fascia was opened and inset using a 5-0 polydioxanone suture. After closure, one group received continuous irrigation, and the other group received continuous drainage. Mean skin temperature of the covered area was taken intraoperatively and postoperatively. The statistical analysis of the results showed that temperature (mean and minimum) was lower in the continuous drainage group. There was no difference in temperature between the groups. Continuous drainage was found to be as effective as continuous irrigation for the prevention of deep dermal burns.READ ALSO: READ ALSO: Tawang railway station will be a modern, strategic hub for the north eastern region Tawang railway station will be a modern, strategic hub for the north eastern region NEW DELHI: Railway Minister Suresh Prabhu on Tuesday gave his approval to revamp of Tawang, the first station on the Indo-China border, as a major strategic hub for the north-east region.Apart from railway ticketing and recruitment, development of this railway station will also include modernisation of the station infrastructure, set up of the next generation railway museum, residential accommodation and a state-of-the-art transit bus terminal.The minister said a detailed project report is being prepared to implement the project and that he is hopeful of being able to start by the end

Existencialismo: para imortalizar la libertad de expresión Volúmenes de peligro El pensamiento es inmoralidad, dice Ananda Coomaraswamy en su "Draupadi" (la mujer de la ciudad de Drapu), libro que algunos dicen que es una de sus obras más profundas. "La mayor parte del pensamiento que se escribe es inculto; es, por lo tanto, malo", dice Coomaraswamy. "Pero el pensamiento puede ser malo tanto si lo expresa como si no se expresa. Y en este sentido, el pensamiento es bueno o malo al expresarse o no expresarse. Si encarna poder o riqueza, la expresión de este pensamiento es mala. Y si sólo se expresa afecto o esfuerzo, es bueno. Con esta última condición se define lo positivo y lo negativo del pensamiento. El esfuerzo y el afecto, el que solo afecta a los sentimientos, constituyen lo que es considerado como bueno" (VV. E, 28). Después de aportar la definición de lo bueno y lo malo, Coomaraswamy señala que todo el mundo va a envolver lo bueno en una idea y lo malo en una cosa. La razón es muy sencilla: "Somos ciudadanos del Eterno" (VV. E, 29), pero no el genio más grande ni el de mayor valor; sólo "el que es parte de la más sutil esencia de la naturaleza. La naturaleza es original a cada uno de nosotros". Así que no e79caf774b

And I'm sure I've seen a link to one or more on serverfault already, so it must have been asked before. But what are the reasons to choose one over the others. I know JavaScript for a long time already. I'm also good with other languages like C++, C# and PHP. So why pick one? What does it give me and my project? A: A few things to consider: What is the target platform? What browsers support it? What language features does it have? Ease of implementation Ease of debugging / error-handling Implementation-friendly Now, granted, I know there are probably a thousand more I missed, but for a more complete list, you can check out this site. Either way, to help you narrow down your choices, you can also check out this stackoverflow discussion. A: These are my considerations, using jQuery as a base to build my own framework. So why pick one? What does it give me and my project? jQuery brings a lot of basic HTML and CSS features to JavaScript. The goal is to help you move everything about the DOM you already know. You can run/debug your script in your browser. You don't need to write complex HTML/CSS. It is very small. What does it give me and my project? You can use it as a scripting language in your project. You could add controls to create all the interfaces you want, add validation or form submissions. Support for all browsers. Support for IE6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Built-in AJAX functionality. Lots of plugins out there for: autocompleters, touch effects, datepickers, etc. Various libraries out there, such as: MooTools, Prototype, jQuery, and YUI. Ease of
