Ninja Sword of Shurijo This mobile game was one of my first time played in virtual reality. How to play: You are playing as a main character, the ninja SORETU. As you know, the Ninja Sword is an unique weapon, being capable of striking any target with a single strike. However, the greatest disadvantage of the sword is that, even in the most powerful Light or Dark Arts, it cannot harm other ninja that have not taken their own special Rituals. This is the reason why the only ways to kill other people are either by hand (only the Red "Ninja No Kuni" stars appear on the screen) or using Magical Art. The game contains wonderful graphics and sound effects. You, as Soretu, have to complete a series of puzzles, which will allow you to explore the battlefield in depth and discover new mysteries. How to make Soretu? Before starting this game you should have two things: First, a good VR headset, and secondly, an Android (basically, any device with Android) compatible smartphone. How to play? 1. Download the game. We recommend that you play it with a virtual keyboard (beneath the virtual play field). 2. You can start playing from the moment the file starts downloading to your device. The game is compatible with most Android-based mobile devices, including smartphones and tablets. 3. Switch to the play field with the following commands: "F" to move forward, "S" to move backward, "A

, Area 2, E10 - W10 Friday, 2 May 2012 6:22 The London Borough of Hackney is best known as the area in which Transport for London's TFL Underground train and bus operations are based. However, in between is a similar area, in which in 1962 the Metropolitan Police created the iconic Flying Squad, of which a dedicated and decidedly sexy squad still continues. A Police Flying Squad, I believe, is the closest thing we have to SO13 in the UK. For those looking for a bit of a non-Lancaster-style show, I'd recommend checking this excellent site if you want some delectable detective work by some of the best detectives in the London Police Force. Today, we start where Traxx owner Gary Parks recommended - at the district center, which has now changed as mentioned by Jason (a whole in his previous comment) a while ago. The officers are in a personal drive now. To begin, we teleport into the witness's office. There is a computer, a glass-fronted cabinet which we can see inside, the witness's jacket and holster hanging up, and there are two files are also there, one on each desk. Report from Nigel Clark: "I'm the Head of Forensic Sciences for the Metropolitan Police. We've been on your case for three weeks now, following research that indicated some paranormal activity taking place in the adjacent house..."

----- Holmes writes to Nigel Clark, Superintendent Forensic, The Metropolitan Police. I quote: "Did the Constables you mentioned have any special...?" ----- Mr. Clark lists what he will require the operatives to do. Info from the Office of Nigel Clark (CREDIT TO STEVEN REDHEAD): The Metropolitan Police's Flying Squad require artists to collaborate with them (unofficially) on both analysis and investigative tasks. They will also be working long hours and are likely to be called upon to search properties for a number of different reasons. Scott (John Simms) is a young Irishman who works closely with Nigel. While his skills seem rather "raw" and "unprofessional" at times, his fascination with the paranormal and investigation has proved of great use to the Flying Squad. With the support of Scott and his father Ray, and with Scott's maturing facial features... well, I won't say what "they" will be impressed by in you.
