TESTING

Hello Everyone. Thank you for all your support and feedback on monster legends. We are testing version 1.2 on the closed beta. The majority of feedback that we have been asking for will be coming the in next patch, but thought we would have a round of bug testing now! Bugs that have been addressed are: 1. Monster collision should be better. (Should be able to see more monsters sometimes in inventory) 2.Items that cannot be looted sometimes now take up a portion of inventory. 3.AI has been tuned slightly. 4.Bug fix on tile and item use. Should this be present in next few patches, we will let you know. 5.First person view for monsters (When moving next to certain monsters) 6.Item-looting bug for death spell. Now working.

Synergistic ablation of murine sarcoma by combinations of hyperthermia and cisplatin. In a search for hyperthermia-cisplatin regimens with short exposure time and curative temperatures, we studied the effect of combinations of hyperthermia with various concentrations of cisplatin in murine sarcoma cells. Two murine sarcoma variants, MH2.9 and HS4R, were studied by measuring the in vitro colony-forming ability (thermotolerance) and the in vivo tumor-forming ability. The data indicate a synergism between hyperthermia and cisplatin in reducing the colony-forming ability, when the tumor cells are heated at 42 degrees C for 1 hr prior to the application of cisplatin. The threshold concentration at which synergism was observed was 1 microgram/ml, lower than that typically used clinically. The earlier onset of synergism observed with the murine sarcoma cells compared with the human neuroblastoma cells tested with the same hyperthermia protocol and drugs suggests that different mouse tumors can be used to evaluate the chemosensitization and thermosensitization potential of hyperthermia-chemotherapy regimens.

Story highlights One U.S. official says the NSA's bulk collection activities wouldn't have found al Qaeda A California congressman says all intelligence agencies should be banned from bulk data collection (CNN)In the 1980s, the CIA was seen as the poster child for state surveillance -- back then, liberals and conservatives alike spoke out against an agency that was accused of indiscriminate spying and other activities. Today, that image is changing, as a bipartisan backlash against the National Security Agency's bulk phone records and Internet surveillance programs grows. A new lawsuit filed in Washington comes from the Electronic Frontier Foundation, claiming the National Security Agency is engaging in a mass data mining operation in direct contradiction to what was said publicly by U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder in March. At the time, Holder said the NSA did not collect "any type of data at all on millions or hundreds of millions of Americans." In a statement, Edward Snowden said Holder's remarks were made "without any evidence." The new lawsuit asks the court to order the NSA to preserve the materials it is allegedly accumulating and for the agency to stop its data-mining program.
