It was formed in January 1978. The PSCAA was formed in response to concerns about pollution levels in the Puget Sound. A number of environmental organizations and political groups were involved in its formation, including the Sierra Club, Environmental Defense Fund, the Puget Sound Cities Association, the Washington State DNR, and the Puget Sound Energy Association. The PSCAA had a goal of creating environmental legislation. Four major bills were passed by Washington State legislators: the Air Contaminants Control Act, the Hazardous Waste Act, the Solid Waste Management Act, and the Clean Water Act. Many of these measures went on to be implemented federally and on a nationwide level. The PSCAA dissolved in March 1995, when the Washington state legislature created the Puget Sound Air and Water Authority. The present study was designed to investigate the effects and mechanisms of norcantharidin (NCD) on human lung cancer xenografts in nude mice. NCD was administered by i.g. and i.p. injection at doses of 6.25-50 mg/kg. The time course study indicated that the maximum inhibitory effect was observed at day 14 after administration of NCD. The antitumor effect of NCD on i.g. administration was more marked than on i.p. administration. NCD significantly inhibited tumor growth at all doses and time periods examined. The results of the hematological and biochemical analyses revealed no apparent systemic toxicity of NCD
