[Citations.] The court must, therefore, weigh the prejudice derived from the new evidence against the probative value of the evidence. (People v. Zapien, supra, 4 Cal.4th at pp. 955-956; People v. Gil, supra, 63 Cal.App.4th at pp. 680- 681.)” (People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal.4th 491, 589.) Here, the declarations of defendant are not new evidence per se because he does not contend his declarations are fundamentally different from prior statements. The only problem defendant has is that the witness did not testify to statements he made in his prior declaratory judgment proceeding. This does not allow us to assess whether the statements were probative of defendant’s credibility or truthfulness. Indeed, it appears defendant is trying to argue that his testimony was truthful and the previous statements were not. But this claim goes to the weight of defendant’s testimony, rather than its admissibility, and this court has concluded his statements were properly admitted to impeach his credibility. (People v. Avila, supra, 38 Cal.4th at pp. 589- 590.) 25 C. Double jeopardy Defendant contends that admission of the declaratory judgment documents for the purpose of impeaching his testimony violated the Fifth Amendment guarantee against double jeopardy because this impeachment evidence was substantially similar to his testimony 6d1f23a050
