You can select these command in your JBuilder like the below picture. A: OS platform : Windows XP, Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8 Java runtime : 8 Update 45, 8 Update 46 JDK/JRE version : 8 Update 45, 8 Update 46 JWS-Engine : 1.7.1 iBATIS : 2.3.9 Get Your Required APK I have tested this feature with the following Android devices: Android 4.0.3 Android 2.3.3 Android 1.6.0 Android 1.5.0 Android 1.4.0 Without getting too technical, I can assure you that this will work with any Android device that has been updated to the current version of Android i.e. 2.3.3. Steps to Compress and Extract a video using JWPlayer Open JW Player 10 from your Android App Store. Open JW Player Interface. Go to your medias folder. Copy your video media folder onto your hard drive. Navigate to your hard drive. Drag and drop the media folder to the main JW Player window. That's all you have to do! Your video will be compressed and ready to play! For more information on this feature read the detailed article here. Additional features you could potentially include in your app are: Support for camera Storing video meta data (such as video duration, video bitrate, camera resolution, video encoding/audio encoding, and supported mobile devices) Playback of videos (full-screen, half-screen, 30-minute playback, slideshow and others), with seamless playback between different screens or view sizes. Downloading of videos (full screen or full-screen one-segment) from YouTube and other video sites. Support for downloading and playing various audio formats. For more information on video support in JW Player 10, visit this blog. Steps to Compress and Extract a video using mp4box Download the latest version of mp4box from the m.mp4box.com website. Extract the archive file of mp4box. Run the mp4box application. Drag and drop the media you would like to compress in to the mp4box application. Click on the Convert button. That's it! 6d1f23a050
