account of a national tragedy,” the network told HuffPost. “This decision should not be interpreted as an endorsement of that judgment.” The Network apologizes to James Comey. — Max Steinberg (@MaxSteinberg) May 11, 2017

NBC News reporter Kristen Welker said Phillip’s remarks “do not reflect the values of this institution.” “In addition, it sent a flawed message to viewers that is in direct opposition to our journalists’ obligation to accurately and fully cover all sides of every story, without fear or favor,” she said. “The inaccuracy was unintentional and we apologize.” Editor’s Note: Following the publication of this story, ABC News issued a clarification about the nature of its probe. It said Phillip’s comments were “not intended as an endorsement” but were “inaccurate and offensive.” The network also said the suspension was not a reflection of the beliefs of the entire organization. The suspension comes two days after Comey was fired for “very poor judgment” in the handling of the Hillary Clinton email investigation. Comey was ousted at the request of Attorney General Jeff Sessions, who said Comey had “lost the confidence of the president.” Trump cited the probe into his campaign’s ties c6a93da74d
